Medill Bair Leaving Carmel To Head Schools In Hartford

Medill Bair, who resigned as superintendent of the Carmel Unified School District last Friday, was expected to return here today after spending this week in Hartford, Connecticut, where he has accepted a new position.

As head of the Hartford school system, he will supervise the education of 30,000 students in three high schools, three middle schools and 26 elementary schools. The professional staff he will head numbers 1,566 persons. And the classified staff 225 employees.

The Hartford system is planning a $50 million school building program.

Mr. Bair succeeded Superintendent Stuart Mitchell who retired in 1963. His employment by the Carmel Unified School District at a salary of $22,000 caused considerable comment as it was $6,800 higher than his predecessor's. Before coming here, Medill Bair was superintendent of the Lexington school district in Massachusetts.

He is an authority on the non-graded school and started the first such program in cooperation with Harvard University, also has written a text on this method of instruction for use by administrators and teachers.

Team teaching was another of his professional interests, also school library development, scholastic incentive programs and in-service training for teachers. He has acted as education consultant to the national government and the state education departments of Oregon and Pennsylvania.

Below is printed the letter of resignation Medill Bair sent to the Carmel board of education.

"It is with deep regret that I tender my resignation to the Carmel Unified School District effective August 31, 1966, for the purpose of serving as superintendent of schools in Hartford, Connecticut. If a replacement is available prior to that date I would be happy to accept an earlier release.

"My three years in Carmel have been most rewarding to me professionally and living in Carmel has been a delight to the Bair family.

"Carmel is fortunate in having a dedicated administrative staff and hardworking teachers. I was most happy that in this time of crisis the board saw fit to provide a slightly improved salary guide and I hope this is a token of things to come.

"Please accept my sincere thanks for your thoughtful consideration of the problems of Carmel's youth and your dedicated service as board members in the face of seemingly insurmountable problems.

Thank you for your support.
Sincerely yours,
Medill Bair"

The "time of crisis" to which Mr. Bair refers, is the present situation of the Carmel Unified School District governing board which, because of the failure of a 70 cent override tax, has had to accomplish economies in preparing the district's 1966-67 budget.

Last week, the board granted increases in teachers' salaries, also raised the pay of classified employees. Economies accomplished in the balanced budget proposed by Mr. Bair last week, he predicted, will lower the school tax in the Carmel district 12-14 cents next year, if finally approved by the school board.

First Lady Declares Ugliness Is Man-Made

"Ugliness, on the whole, is man-made and can be unmade," maintained Mrs. Edmund G. Brown Friday as she addressed some 150 people at a luncheon given in her honor by the Monterey County Women's Division of the Democratic State Committee at the Mark Thomas Inn. The Governor's lady, on a four-day tour of the state in her capacity as chairman of the Citizens Action Advisory Committee on Beautification, was introduced by State Senator Fred Farr, himself a member of the committee.

As a result of the Governor's Conference in January, the committee is now considering over 100 recommendations, some of which require federal legislation. Mrs. Brown told her audience. Explaining that the current tour was not for the purpose of viewing the state's natural beauties but rather to focus attention on what individual communities are doing to enhance and preserve their environments, she described several excellent improvement projects. "Usually," said Mrs. Brown, "the impetus came from aroused citizens." While Mrs. Brown finds encouragement in the fact that Partly cloudy with less than usual amount of low clouds and fog. Slight possibility of some precipitation. Temperatures days 58-68, nights 50s, relative humidity days 70%-75%, nights 80%-90%. Winds gusty in afternoons 10-20 mph.

When Carmel voters go to the polls on Tuesday to select party candidates for the September election, they will be faced for the first time with voting machines. Anyone who wishes to be prepared for this experience may take advantage of the service offered at Republican headquarters in the striped tent (pictured above) situated on Dolores Street near the post office. This tent has become a pre-election feature of the community.

Carmel is a Republican city. There are 1,892 registered Republican voters compared to 938 Democrats.

The register of voters also lists 145 persons who declined to state party affiliation.

YOUTH CENTER DANCES CANCELLED

The Carmel Youth Center dance scheduled for tomorrow night is cancelled. Because of possible hazard from excavating work at the site, no dances or larger gatherings will be permitted until further notice from the city building inspector.

However, Democrats outnumber Republicans in Monterey County. Registered in the county are 39,644 Democrats, 30,869 Republicans, 2,562 persons who declined to state affiliation and 12 voters in the miscellaneous classification — total 73,087.

History Of The Golf Club -- Rome To The Space Age

Whack! That's the sound heard around the United States as millions of Americans tee-off on more than 4,900 golf courses and there's a fascinating history behind the golf club.

The ancient Romans played a game called paganica, which involved the use of open countryside, a ball stuffed with feathers and a bent stick.

In the first century before Christ when the Romans overran Europe, crossed the English Channel and occupied parts of the British Isles, they brought their game with the bent stick with them. It took some 1,500 years to refine the game and add straight clubs; but by 1457, "golfe" had become so popular in Scotland that it threatened the practice of archery for defense and was promptly outlawed by the King and Parliament.

However, the introduction of gunpowder near the end of the 15th century lessened the importance of archery and restored golf to the people.

The earliest known club maker was William Mayne of Edinburgh, who received a royal warrant as club maker and spear maker from James VI in 1603. Among the oldest known clubs is a set of six woods and two irons found in a walled-up closet of a house at Hull, England, with a copy of a Yorkshire newspaper dated 1741. A far cry from today's scientifically designed fiberglass-shafted clubs, all six woods and two irons of this historic find are shafted with ash. Only one wood and one iron have grips. The woods are leaded and boned, the lead extending from near the toe to two-thirds of the way to the heel.

Throughout the 18th century, clubs were made by hand by artisans at the few golf courses then in existence. One expert, Douglas McEwan, made his clubheads from small cuts of hedgehorne which had been planted on sloping banks so that the stems grew at an angle at the root and created a natural bend for the neck.

By the first half of the 19th century, clubs had come to be divided into four classes: drivers, spoons, irons and putters. Since the game at this time was still played with a leather-covered ball stuffed with feathers, all of the clubs tended to be long and slender. But soon after the introduction of the harder gutta percha (rubber-like) ball in 1848, club makers recognized the new strain on the thin clubs and changed their design.

Wooden heads gradually became shorter and squatter in shape. Hard thorn was discarded for the softer apple, pear and beech in the heads and leather insets appeared in the faces. Hickory, which originally came from Russia and later from Tennessee, replaced ash in the making of shafts.

Just as the introduction of the more flexible hickory shafts in this period greatly improved the caliber of play, so the new torque-resistant fiberglass shafts of present-day clubs promise to do the same. In fact, scientific tests conducted by engineers, with machines that hit all balls the same way, every stroke, show that clubs with fiberglass shafts drive the ball further and more accurately than those with conventional shafts.

Lacking the unmatched suppleness and whip of fiberglass, 19th century golfers, nevertheless, broke record upon record. Allan Robertson, with hickory clubs and gutta percha balls, shattered all precedent by scoring a 79 at St. Andrews in 1858, and this record stood until Young Tom Morris broke it.

Golf was being influenced by the industrial revolution when the true rubber ball came into the game at the beginning of the 20th century. And these two factors wrought major changes in the clubs and the methods by which they were produced, as craftsmanship moved out of the individual professional's shop and into the factory.

The new hard rubber ball brought about the use of persimmon and, later, laminated clubheads. Drop-forging almost completely replaced hand-forging in the fashioning of iron clubs, and faces were deepened to accommodate the livelier ball and were machine-lined to increase the spin on the ball in flight. Stainless steels replaced carbon steels. Seamless steel shafts took the place of hickory — and, if the new trend continues, will be replaced eventually with fiberglass reinforced plastic.

Improvement of the shaft was accompanied by the general introduction of numbered clubs, rather than named clubs, and by the merchandising of matched sets. Where formerly a golfer seeking new clubs went through an entire rack until he found one that "felt right" and then tried to find other clubs of similar feel, he now brought a whole set manufactured to impart the same feel.

The golf club has come a long way in 2,000 years—from a simple bent stick to scientifically designed and matched woods and irons with supple fiberglass shafts.

50 Years Ago in Carmel

—THIS WEEK—

Fifty years ago last Sunday, Carmelites attended an outing. This is the Pine Cone's report of the event.

AN ENJOYABLE OUTING

"Carmel's leading social organization, the Manzanita Club, the membership of which is made up of businessmen, mechanics, professional men, artists, and others, has again made good its reputation for doing things right.

"Bright and early last Sunday morning, club members and their families assembled on Ocean Avenue, and in response to the committee's 'all aboard' climbed into automobiles and tallyhos provided for the occasion. Accompanied by several private vehicles, the entire party, numbering about 70, proceeded to Point Lobos for a day's outing.

"It was an outing long to be remembered, and for many reasons. Here are some of them.

"Every man, woman and child had enough to eat.

"It didn't cost anyone a cent for anything.

"Everyone had a seat going and coming.

"Not an accident occurred to mar the pleasure of anyone.

"Several baseball stars of the feminine gender were discovered.

"It was the best get-together Carmel folk ever had."

And Carmelites were coming back to the village.

The new Monterey and San Benito Counties phone book is going to press soon. Customers who want to change or add alphabetical listings must do so by June 14, Gray Bryant, Pacific Telephone's local manager, said today.

To change a listing or add one for another member of the family, customers are asked to call their local Pacific Telephone business office.

"We need to know of any changes as soon as possible in order to do the necessary clerical work before the deadline," Bryant explained.

The new directory will be delivered in July.

CONCERT SUNDAY AT CARMELITE MONASTERY

The Monterey Peninsula College Brass Ensemble, conducted by MPC music instructor Henry Smith, will give a public performance on Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at the Carmelite Monastery on Highway One at San Jose Creek south of Carmel.

The program will include "Sonata Pian e forte," by Giovanni Gabrieli; "Ricercar del primo tuono," by Giovanni Palestrina; "Contrapunctus I," by Johann Sebastian Bach; and "Sonata No. 2," by Johann Pezel.

Lyrics for the set of pieces, written by Ray Russell, first appeared as a "musical without music" in Playboy several years ago. Purdy, who teaches music for the Carmel schools, has provided the music, which will be interpreted by the 50-voice MPC Chorus under the direction of Dr. Harvey Marshall in the college concert.

The chorus will also present a set of spirituals—"Mr. Banjo," "My Lord, What a Mornin'" and "Set Down, Servant"—as well as two pieces by Gabriel Faure, "Pavane" and "Madrigal."

SOAP FOR VIETNAM

Philip B. Fleming (left) and Tom Huntington of the Robert Louis Stevenson School delivered 500 pounds of soap to the Naval Auxiliary Landing Field on May 13 for air shipment to Viet Nam. The soap was collected in a campaign conducted by the students for distribution under Project Handclasp.

This is the second and final shipment of soap to Viet Nam made by the Robert Louis Stevenson School. A similar shipment was made last December. Upon completion of the campaign, members of the school package, label, weigh, measure and assign serial numbers to each carton of soap.

Staples Enjoying Europe

A trickle of postcards to fellow Carmel Rotarians indicates the progress of Lou Staples and his wife as they travel through Europe on a buying trip for their shop, Spencer's House of Cards. One, from Hanover, Germany, contains a wistful reference to missing good coffee. Another, from Venice, read "People cordial and charming. Spending too much money." The Stapleses also wrote from Austria and appear to be enjoying their journey.

The Marcuses Returned

After 16 months of absorbing and being absorbed by Mexico, writer Alan Marcus, his wife, Lotte, and their three children are back in their Carmel Highlands home, slowly adjusting to the pace of life in the United States.

With a Guggenheim grant, Alan intended originally to write only for a year in some compatible community. However, time took on a dreamlike quality in San Miguel de Allende, where their lives became interwoven with those of their Mexican neighbors. With Naomi and Anina in school and young David in the equivalent of kindergarten, Lotte helped at his school and taught English to teenage, culturally disadvantaged girls at a convent. "A personal 'Operation Head Start' program," Lotte calls it. Also, in August, Alan became an accredited correspondent for the Atlantic Monthly, in which his work has appeared in the past.

Though most of their stay south of the border was spent in San Miguel, the Marcuses also visited Guadalajara, Mexico City and Acapulco.

Holiday In Puerto Rico

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon W. Lundeen have returned from a two-week trip to Puerto Rico, where Mr. Lundeen attended the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's "Millionaire" Convention in San Juan. Before official activities began, they had an opportunity to tour the island.

One of the events for wives of the convention-goers, Mrs. Lundeen reports, was the best fashion show she's ever seen—a really haute couture collection by a local designer who was readying his new line for a showing in New York. It was a lovely vacation, she says, which might have been longer if they were not in the process of building a new house near their residence on Spindrift Road in Carmel Highlands.

Jeanie Roeder Sets Date

Jeanie Roeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Roeder of Carmel, has chosen June 25 as the date of her marriage to F. Allen Harris, the son of Mrs. Helen L. Sadler of Dallas, Texas, and the late Murray S. Harris of New York City.

Jeanie has asked Mrs. Jonathan Day of Houston, Texas, to be her matron of honor. The other attendants will be Mrs. Michael McNeil of Pacific Grove, who graduated with Jeanie from Carmel High School, and Mr. Harris' sister, Susan Sadler of Dallas, Texas.

John Roeder, brother of the bride-to-be, will be among the ushers.

A graduate in philosophy from the University of California at Berkeley, Jeanie also studied at Scripps College, where she received the Ruth George Poetry Award, and the University of Texas and Harvard Summer School. For three years, she was a member of Mademoiselle magazine's College Board. Jeanie is currently working at the Library of Congress in Washington, D. C.

Her fiance, an honors graduate from Princeton University and a member of the Quadrangle Club there, received his L.L.B. degree at the University of Texas Law School. A member of the Foreign Service, Mr. Harris is now with the Foreign Service Institute in Washington, D. C.

Following their wedding at the Church of the Wayfarer, the couple will have a honeymoon cruise through the Caribbean en route to Caracas, Venezuela, where Mr. Harris will join the U. S. Embassy staff.

John Campbell Is Home

Following completion of training as a paratrooper at the Army Basic Airborne School at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, Private John B. Campbell is here on leave at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melbourne B. Campbell.

A 1963 graduate of Carmel High School, John attended Monterey Peninsula College before entering military service. He is scheduled to return to Fort Campbell for advanced paratroop training.

Europe Her Destination

Mrs. Margaret Stebbins is in the throes of readying her house for rental and packing up her belongings in anticipation of six months of travel "as the spirit moves her." She is driving East to visit her sisters in Virginia and New York and will fly to London on the June 19. England, where she has several friends, will be headquarters, though she plans to travel in France, perhaps Portugal and Austria.

Wed At Carmel Mission

Pacific Grove is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Allen Maxinoski, the former Patricia Trinity Ayala, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ayala of Carmel Valley. The couple exchanged wedding vows before the Reverend Frank Dunn at Carmel Mission on May 14.

Mrs. Clyde Sailer, the bridegroom's sister, was matron of honor and his niece, Cheryl Ann Sailer, was flower girl for the formal wedding.

Gordon Lee Maxinoski of Carmel served as his brother's best man. The bride's uncle, Joe Campos, seated the guests and David Choate was ring bearer.

A graduate of Monterey High School, the new Mrs. Maxinoski is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Campos.

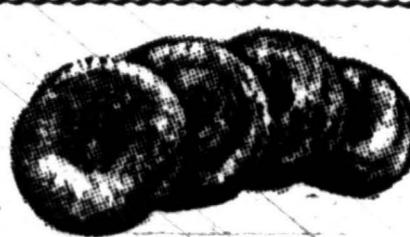

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Maxinoski of Montreal, Wisconsin. A graduate of J. E. Murphy High School at Hurley, Wisconsin, he is employed at Hacienda Carmel.

Among guests attending the wedding and the reception which followed at Crespi Hall were the bridegroom's parents and his grandmother, Mrs. Jennie Zanutto of Montreal, Wisconsin; his aunts, Miss Amelia Maxinoski and Mrs. John Maxinoski of Grand Hills; his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Zanutto, with their children, Richard and Beverly; Mrs. Frances Keemon and her daughters, Deane and LaVerne, of Morgan Hill; and Mr. and Mrs. James Corrs of San Pablo.

Sallie Stean Is Home

Sallie Stean arrived in San Francisco from Hawaii this week to visit a friend in the Bay Area before coming home for the summer vacation from her studies at Church College at Laie, Hawaii is really Sallie's second home, since her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stean, have a home in Honolulu and her sister, Karen, is now a Honolulu resident.

The Stean's son, Ralph Jr., incidentally, is now an airman second class in the U. S. Air Force and is stationed with SAC in Omaha.

Toured Bible Lands

Mrs. Herbert (Valerie) Heron has returned from a seven weeks' Bible Lands Ambassador Tour which took her to eight countries.

The Pompeii-Capri areas and Rome she found interesting beyond expectation. In Egypt there was an impressive interview with the United States ambassador. While in Jordan, the group visited the U. S. Embassy, also saw the Palm Sunday procession in Jerusalem which coincided with the Arab New Year celebrations. Other memorable parts of Mrs. Heron's travels included being in Israel at the height of the new state's 18th anniversary, spending Easter in Istanbul, cruising through the Greek Isles and attending a religious Reformation period study in Geneva, Switzerland. There she noted the charming custom of wearing lily of the valley in observance of May Day.

A report on the Middle East given by John K. Cooley of the Christian Science Monitor in Beirut, Lebanon, was another highlight for Mrs. Heron, who is the present Monitor rack committee chairman of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Carmel.

Coincidental Visit

The name of Grace Wickham was among the Sunset School graduates of 50 years ago mentioned in the May 26 Pine Cone edition. Last week, Grace Wickham Ohdner, wife of the late Madfrey Ohdner, was here from Walnut Creek as the guest of Miss Gertrude Rentdorff, a friend who shared the simplicity and spaciousness of the era in the Carmel of post-World War I and the early Twenties.

As a young girl, Mrs. Ohdner took an active part in the theatrical life of the community and was well known to Forest Theater audiences for her singing, acting and dancing. She became interested in puppets and marionettes, working for a number of years with John R. Geddis in the Kegg Goldsmith Marionettes. Later, she lent her talents to the Perry Dilley Marionettes for many years, constructing, manipulating and costuming the extraordinary creations.

While in this area, Mrs. Ohdner visited her former co-worker, John Geddis, and his partner Francois Martin, to see their current production, The Little Flowers of St. Francis, whose dialog is taken from the actual writings of the Saint and those of Brother Leo. She was delighted with the puppets and settings inspired by the frescoes of Giotto at Assisi, also by the accompaniment of 13th Century music and Gregorian chants.

One of Mrs. Ohdner's daughters, incidentally, is cellist Ellen Dessler, who has been a regular performer with the Bach Festival orchestra for a number of years.

Anne Haber Is A Bride

Returned from a honeymoon and in their new home in Seattle are Mr. and Mrs. Darsie Phillip Beck, the former Anne Haber, who were married May 15. The Reverend Donald Johnson performed the double ring ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Haber, in Carmel Valley.

Anne, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of avocado green velvet with an ecru lace bodice. The green cymbidium orchids she carried were chosen by a close family friend, Mrs. Edith Brattin of Carmel Valley, who also arranged the flowers for the wedding and the reception at the Haber home.

Marilyn Haber flew out from the University of Colorado to serve as her sister's maid of honor and Timothy Brattin of Carmel Valley was best man.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Darsie Beck of Seattle, attended the couple's wedding, as did the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Louis Haber of San Francisco. Other out of town guests included Anne's grandfather, Hilton Warren, and Mrs. Warren of Bakersfield, and Patricia Garvey, a student at UC Santa Barbara and a former Carmel High School classmate of the bride.

A graduate of Judson School in Arizona, the new Mrs. Beck attended Monterey Peninsula College. She has one brother, Warren Haber, of Carmel Valley.

Her husband attended the University of Washington and the Academy of Art in San Francisco. He is the brother of Bard and Allison Beck of Seattle.

Honors For Mike McGibney

Michael McGibney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wright of Rancho Rio Vista, was among San Jose State College scholars designated as a "Dean's Student" at an Honor Convocation held at the college May 11. Eligibility for this honor requires a 3.65 grade point average, which Mike achieved in the engineering program.

Mike, a 1961 Carmel High School graduate, will receive his B. S. degree in aeronautics on June 10. Following graduation, he will fly to Hawaii to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Verne Skillman who, until recently, was a Carmel resident for many years. In September, Mike will report to Pensacola, Florida, to begin flight training with the U. S. Navy, fulfilling his childhood goal of becoming a pilot.

Alliance Francaise Awards

From the list of local people visiting Kona Plantation on Hawaii, it sounds as though there are more Carmelites than other guests at the popular resort. Ellen and Walt Stuefloten, former residents who are now managing the resort, report that Mrs. Adrienne Engle, Mrs. Helen Cravietto, the Roddie Maddocks and the Leonard Steinmetzes have been enjoying vacations there.

Dr. and Mrs. Rod McArthur were due last weekend, and Lieutenant Mike Raggett (USN), now stationed in Honolulu, dropped in to see them. Ellen says it was good to see Mike and find out what other Carmel High School graduates of his class are doing.

While Charlie Winters was there, he and Walt went hunting on Mauna Kea and brought home two wild boar. "Delicious," writes Ellen, "and now I have two nice boar tusks for the start of a bracelet."

The Stueflotens send a very warm "aloha" to all their Carmel friends.

for second and third places, respectively, were Connie Norwick of Carmel and Christine McKinstrey of Pacific Grove. The awards were presented by Mrs. Joseph S. Thompson of San Francisco, vice president of l'Alliance Francaise for the West Coast, on May 29 at the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, where Miss Drab will study this summer.

Mrs. Henry Baron, chairman of l'Alliance's "Bourse Scholaire" for the Peninsula, prepared the examination which took place on May 14. Judges were Michel Joyet, Mrs. John Dowdakin, Marian Stevens and Francois Van der Wal.

Another $400 scholarship, awarded by the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies, was given to Mrs. Anne Berthoin, former Smith College French major, who will prepare herself further to teach the French language.

Henri Corbat, local president of l'Alliance, and Gaspard Weiss, president of the institute, congratulated the winners assembled before members and students.

Art News . . .

"Abstractions of Symbolism," a selection of new enamel panels by Ree Mantz of San Francisco, is on show at the Carmel Dooley Gallery from June 1 to July 8. Moods in these enamels vary from the mystical transcendentalism of "Vesper—Golden Gate Park," to the fantastic "Mysterious Big Sur," portrayed by strange abstract figures and the near-Oriental symbolic "Divination." Characterized by the enamel glow from the golds and rich tones of the enamels which the artist worked for a decade to perfect, moods fluctuate as the day or the light changes, until at dusk some seem lighted from a quiet inner essence.

In the belief that individualistic fine art should be shown selectively, the Ree Mantz enamel panels have been seen, over the past several years, by gallery-invitation. After an early piece, lapis-blue sphere, was acquired for architectural display by Frank Lloyd Wright, her enamel panels have been included in other famous collections — Art-Connoisseur Industrialist of St. Louis; Member of Parliament, Secretary of External Affairs for New Zealand; and the permanent San Francisco Toren Gallery collection. Now she is exploring further the adventures of architectural and sculptural design.

Recent paintings by Helen B. Dooley will also be on exhibit this month in the Dooley Gallery through the Mall on San Carlos Street. Her pictures feature brilliantly colored abstract impressions of the California landscape done since the first of the year.

At the May meeting of the board of trustees of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts, President Leonard Heller announced the resignation of Director-Curator June Braucht who has served in that capacity since January of 1963. The resignation will take effect at the end of August. A committee has been appointed by Mr. Heller to review applications for the position and to make the final decision on the hiring of a new director.

Paintings by Catherine and George Seidenbeck of Carmel Valley will be shown at the American Federation of Arts gallery June 6-30. During the same period, a one-man show of paintings by William Rabinovitch of Pacific Grove will be exhibited in the same location.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Seidenbeck have been closely identified with the artistic life of Carmel since the early days of the village. Mr. Seidenbeck, then a Carmel resident, served as the first president of the Carmel Art Association.

Mr. Rabinovitch was awarded, by Alfred Frankenstein, noted San Francisco art critic, a one-man show at the AFA gallery judged on the work which he submitted to the second AFA Competitive Exhibition of Monterey County Artists last October.

A preview of the Rabinovitch show, for AFA members, will be held on Sunday.

Morley Baer, west coast photographer of architecture and nature, has been selected the recipient of the annual architectural photography medal bestowed by the American Institute of Architects.

He will receive his medal at the annual AIA convention June 26-July 1 in Denver. The award will be conferred at the convention's opening business session on Monday, June 27.

Morley Baer has produced architectural photographs which have appeared in virtually all professional magazines. His photographs of the natural scene were featured recently in the Sierra Club book, "Not Man Apart." He also specializes in capturing on film historical buildings in the San Francisco area.

He lived in Carmel 1946-52 where he started photographing architecture for local architects, builders, and national architectural publications. Though not officially residents of the Monterey Peninsula at present, Morley Baer and his wife spend about half of their time in their new home at Garrapata Creek and plan to live there permanently in a few years.

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History is pleased to announce a photographic exhibition by the Pacific Grove photographer, Jerry Lebeck.

Jerry Lebeck is an avid conservationist and a member of the Sierra Club, serving on its conservation-education committee. The photographer and his camera are inseparable companions. Of his work Jerry said, "The real pleasure in photography has always come to me through my attempts to find and photograph the abundance of visual pleasures that nature is constantly producing."

Jerry Lebeck is a Peninsula product, having attended schools in Pacific Grove and Monterey Peninsula College. His formal photographic training took place in Los Angeles at the Art Center School. He has furthered this education by attending such seminars as the San Francisco Art Institute Photography Workshop and the Professional Photographers of Southern California Seminars.

His works have been published in Life, Summit and Quick magazine. He has won prizes at the Monterey County Fair and contributed to the Sierra Club's photographs of the Big Sur Coast in the book "Not Man Apart." His work has

"Best of Opposite Sex" for Cairn Terriers at the Del Monte Kennel Club dog show at Pebble Beach Sunday went to Vic-Cam's Tartan MacBrigand, a brindle cairn owned by Mrs. Carolyn Camacho of Salinas, president of the Monterey Bay Cairn Club.

"Kassy," a ten-month-old puppy belonging to Mrs. Camacho, also won a blue ribbon in the puppy class. Mrs. Leslie Clark of Carmel entered her dog, "Lighty," in the Obedience Novice A competition. "Lighty" was doing very well until she was distracted and left the ring prematurely.

The Monterey Bay Cairn Club met Saturday for a "Pot Luck" luncheon at the home of member Miss Marcia Haskell of Carmel, and had as guest speaker Mrs. Kay Davis, owner with her husband of the "Craigly Kennels" of Covina. Besides specializing in the breeding of Cairn Terriers, Mrs. Davis' main study field is genetics and she brought with her and displayed to the club members her files containing the pedigrees of some 12,000 Cairns, enabling anyone to check on the back history of a dog.

Rockrose Of Wey Wins Corgi Show

English and American Champion Rockrose of Wey, owned by Elizabeth and Derek Rayne, was judged best in show for the second consecutive year on Saturday during the seventh annual Golden Gate Championship Welsh Corgi Show held at Carmel Valley Inn. Competing in the event were 109 Corgis from California, New York, been shown at the AFA Gallery in Carmel and most recently in the 1966 competitive Photography West held in Los Angeles.

During the month of June, the Grove Gallery will feature an exhibit of oils, lithographs, and serigraphs by Rosemary Topp. Miss Topp teaches drawing and painting at the College of Notre Dame in Belmont. She holds a bachelor's degree in art from the University of Wisconsin and a master's degree from San Jose State College. Her paintings and prints have been exhibited in many national and regional competitions and she has had several one-man shows of her work.

Miss Topp's oils are predominantly abstract and range in color from rich earth tones to brilliant reds and blues. She is skilled in a number of printing processes including lithography, serigraphy and intaglio. Examples of all will be included in the show.

The public is invited to a reception for the artist on Sunday from 4 to 6 p. m., at the gallery which is located at 214 17th St.

FROM A
LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

There do be them as hates mystery stories. And there do be them as really like mysteries but hate to admit it. And finally and best of all, there do be them as love good mysteries and like to discuss them, and recommend them. This piece today is for the last category. With best regards!

"The Case of the Innocent Victims" is a new mystery by Creasy. As the title suggests the persons murdered were very small babies and the person who solves the problem and protects other babies is none other than "Handsome" West of Scotland Yard, bless his stalwart heart! This is a good one, as Creasy's generally are, and falls in the class of a "murder mystery with the murders done by nice people" and we are always on the lookout for that kind.

New this week is "The Moonlighters," a Crime Club book by Susan Morrow. The action takes place in a southern city, and the characters are all members of a set of wealthy social people who have little to do to keep themselves out of mischief. The plot is thickened by the fact that they all have teenage children who get mixed up in the action and then stick together and refuse to tell what they know.

Then there is a collection of shorter mysteries gathered together by Ron Goulart under the title "The Hardboiled Dicks." The jacket blurb states that all of them were previously published in pulp magazines. This librarian read "The Saint in Silver" and it was excellent. The authors of the various stories are well known and the collection will be worth your while. Goulart was born in Berkeley and now lives in San Francisco. Maybe some of you know him. For some reason the photograph of him looks more like an old pair of boxing gloves than a man, so don't try to identify him by his picture.

John and Emery Bonett, who wrote "Better Off Dead," have a new one entitled "The Private Face of Murder." This is an Inspector Gorges case with the action taking place in a tiny Spanish town called Calatrava. Two recent deaths appeared to be only unfortunate accidents until the Inspector arrived in the town. To the Inspector they were not accidents and he proves this to his own satisfaction and yours.

A book with its scene in Los Angeles is "The Meandering Corpse." It is a Shell Scott mystery written by Richard Prather who now lives in Arizona. This is the story of a hard-boiled detective, disliked by both policemen and mobsters, who unravels his affairs in spite of both of them.

And finally, there is "Stalemate" by Evelyn Berckman, who now lives in London and anchors her literary work to British backgrounds, although she was born in this country and attended American universities. "Stalemate" is a suspense novel with two main characters who are men in their late forties or early fifties. Both of them are successful, both are tired of their wives, and both decide to do something about it . . . something drastic. In short, they strike a bargain, each man is to murder the other man's wife. They do it, and get away with it in both cases, but the aftermath of their violence is more violence. Miss Berckman ends by killing off all of her main characters but one, a tidy way to clean up the whole affair.

There's a lot to be said for mysteries. Generally they are fairly clean, their plots are not hard to follow, and they end neatly with everyone happy but the villains. What more could anyone ask of escape reading?

Annual Meeting Of
Red Cross Chapter

The annual meeting of the Carmel-by-the-Sea chapter of the American Red Cross will be held at the chapter house on June 16, at which time the new officers will be elected. The public is invited to the meeting, and all members of the chapter are especially urged to attend. The voting membership is made up of all contributors of one dollar or more to the annual fund and membership drive.

Following the business meeting, when annual reports will be given, there will be a period for social chatting over refreshments, according to Carl Bosholm, chapter chairman. New members are invited to "take a tour," and become acquainted with the building and its facilities for the many chapter activities.

Free Ride To Polls

Any person who desires a ride to the polls on Tuesday may obtain this service provided by the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce by telephoning 372-1071. There will be no charge.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Spiritual causation and spiritual reality will be explored in a Bible Lesson-Sermon on "God the Only Cause and Creator" at Christian Science church services this Sunday.

Responsive Reading from Psalms will begin with these verses: "The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works."

"The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth."

Related passages to be considered from the Christian Science textbook include these lines: "When mortal man blends his thoughts of existence with the spiritual and works only as God works, he will no longer grope in the dark and cling to earth because he has not tasted heaven . . . The age seems ready to approach this subject, to ponder somewhat the supremacy of Spirit, and at least to touch the hem of Truth's garment" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

PINE CONE VISITORS

Just how Carmel's weekly newspaper is produced fascinated 25 second graders from River School on May 24. Their teacher, Miss Dixie Arter, can be seen (above) shepherding some of her flock past the Intertype machines where molten lead is converted into "slugs" by the operators. The boys and girls proceeded to watch these lines of type put into forms for printing on the press.

The second grade visitors were: Jeff Adams, Gail Allen, Donald Benedict, Danny Concepcion, Luette Corbat, Peter Cotsonas, Randy Fox, Betsy Greene, Michael Holly, Lisa Johnson, Richard Jung, Tim Kinion, Beth Lolov, Debra Marston, Tim McFann, Ron Prieto, Tom Richards, Elena Robinson, Suzy Smythe, Marie Tall, Wendy Thorpe, Fay Tousey, Karen Warner, Chris Weber, Alex Wilsdon.

Editor's Note:

On Tuesday these boys and girls made chocolate-coconut fudge and sent Richard Young with a platter of this delicious confection to the Pine Cone staff.

With the candy was a printed card made by the class and adorned with smiling faces. The message on the card was "This is a thank you note with a gift. Thank you!"

The Pine Cone thanks the boys and girls of Miss Arter's class for their thoughtfulness. M.L.

CUSD TEACHER AWARDED FUND FOR EDINN PROJECT

The board of directors of Project Edinn, at their May 19 meeting, awarded a Carmel Unified School District teacher up to $500 to develop his ideas for improving classroom teaching.

Gary Lothe, a fifth and sixth grade reading teacher at Tularcitos School, won approval for a plan to establish a theater arts unit in cooperation with staff members of the White Oaks Theatre in Carmel Valley. Field trips to the theatre will be tied to classroom readings in literature of the theatre and to student compositions by Mr. Lothe's 125 fifth and sixth graders.

MORE ON FREEWAY
Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone

I cannot help replying to Mr. Mackuldar's letter in which he says working people should not live in Carmel. Mr. Mackuldar is very fortunate (?) if he doesn't have to work; but I do not think Carmel was founded for the benefit of retired people. One of the nice things about the town is that most people live here because they love the place and are willing to do most anything to make a living so they can stay here. In this way Carmel becomes a sort of philosophy of life.

As to the freeway: I don't know if Mr. Mackuldar was living here ten or 12 years ago when the State Highway Department first told us we had to have some means of taking care of the traffic which could not help but increase over the years. With the opening of the Hearst Castle, the shopping center at the entrance to the Valley (which is to be enlarged in the immediate future), and the growth of the Valley itself, the traffic has increased to the point where it is difficult to enter Highway One from any of the streets opening onto it at almost any time of day, but particularly on weekends and during the summer.

One helpful solution would be a road from the Salinas Highway to the Valley at about the Farm Center, but I don't notice much action on this idea.

At the time the question first came up, the highway department wanted to make Highway One From Carpenter Street to the river into a freeway, closing off access to it from the side roads below the high school. Many of us, with the help of the Carmel Unincorporated organization, which was very active at the time, spent considerable time and effort persuading the State Highway Department to put the freeway into Hatton Canyon, thus leaving present Highway One as a local road. Even though this will not be very pleasant, there seems to be no other solution which would not be worse.

One of the main problems in Carmel is that too much property was zoned commercial when the city was laid out; and another is that there are so many more people everywhere than there used to be.

Perhaps it would be more to the point if Mr. Mackuldar supported the Planned Parenthood-World Population organization; or, in any case, that he knew a little more of the background before he complains about what is going on in this area. It is certainly unfair of him to blame our problems on the fact that people who have to work also want to live in Carmel. It is sad if he wants to dictate what kinds of people can live where. What sort of totalitarianism is this? I thought we were fighting for people's freedom all over the world. Must we do it here, too?

Very truly yours,
HELEN LAMBERT

ANY OPERA FIENDS?

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone

Please allow me to express the joy and enthusiasm I felt when I witnessed the recent presentation by Nancy Ness Bowman's Opera Work Shop of Pietro Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" at the White Oaks Theatre in Carmel Valley.

I came — I saw — I heard, and I was thrilled. I cannot refrain from shouting from the roof tops how surprised I was to hear voices blending in perfect harmony. The arias sung with meaning and feeling that would do justice to the San Francisco Opera. The orchestra, though small, augmented with the organ, gave a good performance. You could hear "Bravos" along with the deafening applause of the audience demanding encores.

How refreshing it is to know that the performers are from the Monterey Peninsula and Carmel Valley!

Three cheers and a big "Bravo" for Nancy Ness Bowman. We have a Jazz Festival and a Bach Festival, and now it can truthfully be said that we have in the Monterey Peninsula the makings of the beginning of an Opera Festival which rightfully belongs with the Jazz and Bach festivals.

I believe that there are a sufficient number of opera enthusiasts in the Monterey Peninsula that can and should advance this movement — and the time is NOW. I have attended opera for the past 45 years, and been in music for 55 years. I am an "Opera Fiend." How many "Opera Fiends" are there in the Monterey Peninsula? Please write to Nancy Ness Bowman, P.O. Box 1092, Carmel. Encourage her — Help her — Support her Opera Work Shop. She is deserving.

Party Plans

The legacies of Monterey's adventurous history are felt in different ways. Within the walls of Pacific House, the beautiful Memory Garden has added another nostalgic memory. Here, on April 30, this year's Adobe Tour included a Paisano Picnic which did worthy honor to the picturesque past.

Succulent lamb was barbecued in the old California manner on waist-high brick pits. The tantalizing aroma of charcoaled meat, basted with an herbed salsa, tempted the long line of modern "paisanos." Excepting for Richard Mack's expert supervision of the juicy lamb, the rest of the de luxe "picnic" was prepared and served by Monterey's new U. S. Government-subsidized chefs and waiters training program.

Ages old spreading magnolia trees and cool green grape arbors invited everyone to feast and dip, not only into the festive fare, but back to those early times when Monterey was ruled under three flags. Manuel Campos' strolling Mexican musicians further added to the illusion of long ago.

Let's start off with the actual facts and food for this memorable menu:

ADOBE PAISANO PICNIC

Barbecued Lamb with Mac's Herbed Salsa
Frijoles Refritos Feathered Rice
Tossed Mixed Salad Tortillas
Decorated Cake Squares

Vino Tinto Coffee

Herbs thrived so lustily in California's mild climate that they seeded from mission gardens to grow wild along El Camino Real. Friars planted the first fennel and one of California's most treasured wild flowers was the black mustard. Legend has it that some of the padres filled their sleeves with these mustard seeds, scattering them along the trail so their rapid green growth would serve as trail-markers when they retraced their steps. Although wild onions were native to America, the friars brought to California the larger more flavorful Mediterranean onion. Garlic was also quickly a special favorite of the Indians. As one explorer wrote, "The Indians esteem garlic above all the roots of Europe."

MONTEREY MAC'S HERBED SALSA

One part olive oil; $\frac{1}{4}$ part red wine vinegar; a good pinch, each, crushed oregano, thyme, rosemary, fennel and pounded mustard seeds with minced garlic and red onions in good measure; salt and freshly ground black peppercorns to taste.

Barbecue lamb over glowing oakwood charcoal into which laurel leaves and eucalyptus twigs have been scattered. Baste and turn meat frequently. Lamb will be black and enticingly flavored with the aromatic salsa on the outside. It should be faintly pinkish (but well cooked through) on the inside. Que sabroso!

FEATHERED RICE

Put desired amount of long-grain raw white rice on shallow baking sheet. Brown in 375 F. oven, watching and stirring with a long-handled fork. When browned, remove and put into earthenware casserole. Add boiling chicken broth (2 cups liquid to 1 cup rice.) Add minced green onions with tops and mashed garlic to taste with seasoned salt. Toss lightly with fork. Bake in 350 F. oven for 30 minutes. Rice will be as light as a feather.

TOSSSED MIXED SALAD

Have plenty of crisp and chilled salad greens to counteract the rich starchiness of the beans and rice. Tear romaine, escarole, butterleaf, chicory, dandelion and mustard greens into bite-sized pieces. Snip watercress sprigs off stems. Just before serving toss with Monterey Dressing.

MONTEREY DRESSING

In a pint-size jar, combine 1 tbsp. instant minced onion, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. garlic powder and $1\frac{1}{2}$ tsps. white wine. Let stand 20 minutes. Add 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsps. seasoned salt, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. dry mustard and paprika, each; 1 tsp. cracked Java pepper; 1 tsp. crushed oregano; 1 tbsp. shredded parsley; 6 tsps. tarragon-flavored white wine vinegar; 1 cup olive oil. (Double or triple recipe as needed.)

On June 4 lovely Memory Garden will be the setting for Monterey's 196th birthday celebration. As in years past, there will be a Merienda (fresh-air fiesta luncheon). The barbecue department will be handled by men only. The ladies will serve in authentic costumes of the Spanish-Mexican regimens.

"Party Plans" has been told that New York cut steaks will be broiled over the barbecue pit but that the salsa for this occasion will remain a deeply guarded secret. There will be a salad and very special frijoles refritos.

Who doesn't delight in Carmel's own Gus Arriola's famous daily cartoon "Gordo"? Once a year Gordo Lopez gives his recipe for "Beans with Cheese" in his comic strip. Gordo's clever originator will mastermind these same beans at the Memory Garden's Merienda this coming Saturday. Yes, we have the exact directions in Gordo's own words, thanks to Mrs. Gus Arriola.

GORDO LOPEZ' BEANS WITH CHEESE RECIPE

Two Cups Pinto Beans, $\frac{1}{2}$ Cup Lard or Shortening, $\frac{1}{2}$ Cup American or Monterey Jack Cheese, Salt to taste.

Put beans on to cook in 6 cups of warm water, cover and SIMMER lightly $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 6 hours. Keep your eye on them, stirring frequently. The real secret of these beans is not letting them burn! Due to the type of utensil (any deep, metal pot) being used, there may be more evaporation in some cases than others. If you should find it necessary to add water before the cooking time is up be sure it is BOILING HOT! After three hours salt to taste. Continue the slow simmering with frequent stirring for the allotted time then drain the beans and save liquid. Add the $\frac{1}{2}$ cup melted lard and simmer for $\frac{1}{2}$ hour stirring vigorously for at this stage they burn easily. Now pour back the drained off liquid a little at a time mashing the beans (lightly) with the spoon or masher until you have a nice thick gravy. Do not let them get too soupy. Add the chopped American cheese and cook slowly again for 10 minutes or until cheese melts and serve.

If you are not lucky enough (like me) to lie around the house all day watching them cook, then soak beans overnight in about 4 cups of water adding 4 more in the morning. This cuts the cooking time down to about 4 hours.

After you experiment a bit you may find you want to put in the cheese of your choice, but yellow cheese works out the best.

For warming up leftover beans fry them in a pan 'til they are crisp, adding a little more cheese if you wish. These are called frijoles refritos (refried) or chinitos.

MUCHISIMAS GRACIAS,
Senor Gordo!

SUNSET COMMISSION SAYS CARMEL MUST NOT BECOME A CONVENTION CITY

The Sunset Commission on May 27 adopted a report submitted by Commissioners Admiral C. W. Fisher and Dr. James Gilman for forwarding to the city council. Recommended in the report was that the council set a definite policy in regard to the type of group meetings or conferences of professional or educational groups which may be considered desirable uses of Sunset Center.

Relatively small group meetings or conferences for professional or educational purposes were considered to be proper and desirable uses as long as they were subordinate to cultural and community uses but, "the Sunset Commission is strongly opposed to Carmel ever becoming a convention city," the report emphasized.

"THE BIBLE SPEAKS TO YOU"

The Christian Science radio series, "The Bible Speaks to You," will deal with the topic—"Overcoming Friction in the Home," and may be heard locally on Sunday at 8:45 a.m. over station KDON. It's a program telling how one person turning to God can bring peace and happiness to the home.

A member of BPOE Lodge No. 1285 of Monterey and a former member of the Oakland Elks, he belonged also to the Church of the Wayfarer.

Mr. Johnson leaves a daughter, Mrs. Charles A. Carr of Hawaii; two sons, Major Robert H. Johnson of Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and Lieutenant Colonel Clark E. Johnson (USA ret) of Grants Pass, Oregon; and two brothers, G. E. Johnson of Oklahoma City and John Johnson of Washington State. His wife, Eda, died in 1963.

Nettie Rowe

Private services for Mrs. Nettie Deen Rowe, 94, were held Saturday morning in the Mission Mortuary with Dr. Alexander Bryans of the Church of the Wayfarer officiating. Mrs. Rowe died Friday in a local convalescent hospital after a long period of failing health.

A resident of Carmel for the past 23 years, she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Spencer. She was born in Scotland County, Missouri, June 12, 1871.

In addition to Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Rowe leaves another daughter, Mrs. Arthur Plaxton of Carmel; three sons, James Rowe of Pebble Beach, Robert Rowe of Everett, Washington and Dr. Perry Rowe of Yap Island; ten grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Loren Claude Baldwin, a frequent Carmel visitor for many years and a local resident for the past six months, died in a Santa Cruz hospital on May 27 after a brief illness.

For the past eight years, he had made his home in Santa Cruz and was an elementary teacher in nearby Soquel. He was previously engaged in farming in the Hughson area, where he was born 46 years ago.

A graduate of the University of the Pacific, he held a master's degree in psychology from the University of California at Berkeley. Mr. Baldwin was a member of the UC Alumni Association, the Sierra Club and the Methodist Church.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Hannah Baldwin of Santa Cruz, two brothers, Elwin Baldwin of Santa Cruz and Edgar Baldwin of Hughson; a niece and three nephews; and a cousin, Leslie Gross of Carmel.

Music Scholarships At MPC Awarded To Carmel Students

Fifteen high school and college students out of 32 auditionists were winners last week of Monterey Peninsula College's 1966-67 scholarships in instrumental music.

In announcing the awards, Dr. Harvey Marshall, MPC music department chairman, said: "The level of performance ability evidenced in the auditions was higher this time than in previous years. Therefore it was very difficult for the board of judges—Miss Angie Machado, John Erickson and Henry Smith as well as myself—to make the selections.

"We made a sincere attempt to award the scholarships to those who performed well and who will enter into their general college work as full-fledged students."

The winners, each of whom will receive $400 in 10 monthly payments during the 1966-67 year of attendance at MPC, include:

From Carmel High School: John Morrice, violin, and Bob Tarbox, piano.

From MPC: Charles Brown of Seaside, a second-time winner, accordion; Alan O'Dea of Seaside, a second-time winner, tuba; Michael B. Stephens of Pebble Beach, a second-time winner, saxophone and piano; James Bowman of Seaside, percussion; David Schetter of Carmel, a second-time winner, clarinet and saxophone; Holly Garcia of Carmel, piano; and Salvatore Salzillo of Seaside, tympani and percussion.

The scholarships are financed annually by the Monterey Jazz Festival.

Cunningham Named Athlete Of The Year

Craig Cunningham was named "Athlete of the Year" at Carmel High School's annual Spring Sports Banquet on May 28 in the high school gym. Lloyd Miller, director of athletics, made the announcement of the annual award donated by the Carmel Sports Shop. Craig was also designated "Most Valuable Player" in baseball, whose coach is "Jase" Harbert.

Others chosen in the category of "Most Valuable Player" were Bob Fonseca, track; Buck Buet, baseball; Jim Agan, swimming; Ray Baga, tennis; Fred Seeley, golf. The respective coaches who made the presentations are Bob Walthour, Monte Feekes, Jim Agan, Harold Lippstreu and "Buzz" Rainer.

Designated for the Fred Mylar Memorial Trophy in track were Carlos Maraver, dash man; Kim Schauer, distance; John Otter, field events.

The athletes officially received their awards before CHS students during the Spring Sports Athletic Award assembly on May 29.

Commonwealth Club Literature Awards

Michael Blankfort of Los Angeles and Richard Dillon of Mill Valley have been chosen as authors of "the best books by California authors published in 1965." The two writers are this year's gold medalists in the 35th annual Commonwealth Club of California literature award competition.

Conducted every year since 1931, the competition is limited to authors resident in California. The awards will be made on June 8, at a dinner in the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco.

Michael Blankfort will receive the fiction gold medal for his book "Behold the Fire" (New American Library) and Richard Dillon the non-fiction gold medal for his book "Meriwether Lewis: A Biography" (Coward-McCann, Inc.).

Classified silver medals are to be awarded in the field of "California," to W. H. Hutchinson of Chico for his "Oil, Land and Politics, the California Career of Thomas Robert Bard" (University of Oklahoma Press); in the field of juvenile literature, to John and Patricia Beatty of Riverside for their "Campion Towers" (MacMillan Co.); in the field of poetry, to Louis Simpson of Berkeley for his "Selected Poems" (Harcourt, Brace & World).

There will be three unclassified silver medals awarded to A. B. Guthrie, Jr., formerly of Los Angeles and now of Missoula, Montana, for his book "The Blue Hen's Chick" (McGraw-Hill Co.); to Gregor Piatigorsky of Los Angeles for his "Cellist" (Doubleday & Co.); and to Dr. Reuben R. Merlin of Los Angeles for his book "The Year of the Death" (Doubleday & Co.).

A demonstration (above) of what happens to persons with and without seat belts in an automobile collision is included in the General Motors "Previews of Progress" science show which will be presented at Carmel Middle School on Wednesday at 1:45 p.m.

A dramatic, educational presentation, "Previews of Progress" depicts science in action. Its purpose is to encourage youth to pursue studies in science and engineering and to point out some of the many opportunities in these fields.

Synthetic rubber, manufactured in just 60 seconds, will be a demonstration featured next week at Middle School.

Graduate Education Tops At UC Berkeley

The quality of America's leading universities, as judged by the scholarly reputation of their faculties and the effectiveness of their Ph.D. programs, has been evaluated in a new book published by the American Council on Education in Washington, D.C.

The book entitled "An Assessment of Quality of Graduate Education" represents the opinions of more than 4,000 teachers and administrators who responded to the survey in 1964. The analysis includes 29 disciplines at 106 major universities.

Dr. Allan Carter, vice-president of ACE and director of the study, writes that in five general categories—humanities, social sciences, biological sciences, physical sciences, and engineering—the University of California at Berkeley appears in the leading group in all five divisions, a finding which supports the claim that it is the best balanced distinguished university in the country."

Harvard and Stanford appear in four divisions; Columbia, Illinois, Yale, Princeton, Michigan and California Institute of Technology in three; Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Chicago, and Wisconsin in two.

The evaluation was undertaken by ACE's Commission on Plans and Objectives for Higher Education 1) to bring earlier studies up to date (similar analyses were made in 1924, 1934, and 1957) and 2) to widen the assessment to include all major universities in the United States.

To avoid "freezing" the opinions of faculty and programs, ACE intends to repeat the study no later than 1970.

"The public and its formal agencies increasingly demand better information on graduate and professional education," Dr. Carter writes.

"It was also felt that university presidents, deans, and department chairmen could benefit substantially from having such assessments made available periodically, even if the results were not always flattering."

The American Council on Education is the principal coordinating agency for higher education in the United States. A voluntary non-governmental body, the council has a membership of more than 1,400 colleges and universities.

About a Sense of Wonder . . .

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH US ANYWAY? WE'RE HARDENED OLD REAL ESTATE PRO'S IN THIS OFFICE, TRAINED TO LOOK AT PROPERTY IN TERMS OF HIGHEST AND BEST USE, ECONOMIC VALUE, PHYSICAL VALUE, RESALE POTENTIAL, DEFERRED MAINTENANCE, AND ALL THOSE VERY PROFESSIONAL POINTS OF VIEW. AND WE DO, WE DO! THAT'S WHAT YOU PAY US TO DO!

BUT MANY TIMES IN THE ORDINARY PROFESSIONAL ROUNDS OF A REAL ESTATE DAY WE FIND OURSELVES AWE-STRUCK WITH THE BEAUTY OF THE PROPERTY WITH WHICH WE ARE WORKING, AND DEEPLY GRATEFUL THAT OUR BUSINESS LIFE IS SO CONSTANTLY TOUCHED BY THIS SENSE OF WONDER. FOR INSTANCE, WE BEGAN TODAY WITH

AN EARLY MORNING IN CARMEL VALLEY

—very early—as we wanted to capture in a photograph the early shafts of sunlight on the striking wrought iron gate of a house which is a real adventure in creative modern design, set against a backdrop of acres and acres of woods and meadow green belt. There was such an air of mystery in the woods as the early morning mists rose off the valley below that we felt like a child exploring the first morning of the world.

THEN TO A NEW VALLEY LISTING,

A very charming and ranch-y adobe, to picture its lovely tile floors and beam ceilings, where we could not resist photographing also the bush of huge red roses with drops of water still clinging to the petals. What a wonderful home for someone at just $42,850!

IN TO CORRAL DE TIERRA

to meet the owner whose 230 acres we have just listed, and to tramp the rolling hill and meadow land, bright still with field lupin and Indian Paint Brush. Unusual to have such a large parcel for sale in Steinbeck's "Pastures of Heaven" country.

THE PRIVATE PT. LOBOS

where we spent the afternoon with a Chicago client we met at the airport at noon inspired, as always, amazement that such a huge and lovely piece of land is still available to private ownership. The price of $350,000 for the beautiful point of land and its English manor house seems inconsequential—or, as our client said, "Priceless at any price!" Whales, otters, cormorants, succulents of every description, and a fabulous grove of native cypress, lovingly preserved.

RETURNED CLIENT TO AIRPORT, and left him calculating madly to see how quickly he could leave Chicago and come out to God's Country—and we felt that way about this area, too, as we returned to Carmel via the Los Laureles Grade road, with the fabulous oak trees on the Valley hills looking oriental and hauntingly lovely in the last of the light.

IT WAS COMPLETELY DARK

When we made our last stop to check to be sure all the doors were locked behind a team of cleaners at one of Carmel's most delightful little new homes on Dolores near 13th, and there was the almost full moon just caught in the branches of the wonderful oak trees in the enclosed courtyard which give so much unusual charm to the house.

AND THIS IS ALL PART OF THE ENCHANTMENT OF THE CARMEL AREA. THERE ARE SO FEW PLACES LEFT ANY MORE WHICH INVOKE A SENSE OF WONDER IN THE BEAUTIFUL LITTLE THINGS OF LIFE. TRUE, WE ARE IN BUSINESS TO HELP YOU SELL PROPERTY OR TO FIND A NEW HOME. THAT ALONG THE WAY WE MAY FEEL FOR OURSELVES, AND HELP YOU REDISCOVER IN THIS LOVELY LAND, THE SENSE OF WONDER, IS COUNTED AS COMPENSATION ABOVE DOLLARS AND CENTS BY

Richard Lofton

Memorial services for Richard Morrison Lofton were held this afternoon at All Saints' Episcopal Church. The Carmel artist, whose work has been sought and is prized by private collectors, galleries and museums, died Tuesday night in a local hospital.

Born in McClellanville, South Carolina, March 23, 1908, he was a descendant of a Huguenot family which settled near Charleston in 1680. As did his grandfather and father before him, he graduated from The Citadel, termed the "West Point of the South."

He left the disciplined life of The Citadel to study at the National Academy of Design in New York, eking out a precarious existence for a brief time before accepting a position as director of the Community Art School in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. With the outbreak of World War II, Dick Lofton was commissioned an officer in the United States Army. This brought him to Fort Ord and the eventual choice of Carmel as the home of his family—his wife Nancy and their two daughters, Melissa Gay Lofton of Carmel and Mrs. Edward (Nancy) Faridany of Cambridge, Massachusetts.

At the beginning of this year, his native state honored Richard Lofton with a one-man show in the oldest gallery in the U. S., The Gibbs Art Gallery in Charleston. He was present also at another opening of the same exhibit in the capital of South Carolina before the show went on a tour which included an exhibition at The Citadel. Simultaneously, the Carmel Art Association, of which he was a former director, hung a retrospective display of his work covering a span of 38 years. One had only to see this to know how perceptive, uncompromising and creative an artist he was.

Represented in numerous private collections, Richard Lofton's oils, watercolors and drawings are known to gallery visitors in many cities. Locally, in addition to the inclusion of his work in juried exhibits, he has had two other retrospective shows, one at the Galerie de Tours and another at the Carmel Crafts Studios. In December, 1965, the Carmel Arts Commission honored him with a citation listing his contributions to the art life of the community, particularly praising his efforts in establishing a city memorial art museum.

He belonged also to the American Federation of Arts, which recently purchased one of his paintings for its permanent collection, the Old Capital Club and The Citadel Alumni Association.

Mr. Lofton leaves six sisters, Mrs. W. W. Dawsey, Mrs. D. L. Johnson and Mrs. W. M. Bonner, all of McClellanville; Mrs. Luther Bagnal of Winston-Salem, Mrs. Maurice Matteson of Beaufort, South Carolina, and Mary Lofton of Birmingham, Alabama.

Friends wishing to make contributions in memory of Mr. Lofton may do so to the Cobalt Therapy Unit of Community Hospital.

Burial will take place in the family plot in McClellanville. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Stock Market Notes

By Hugh Hannon

Do you own any stock in your bank? You should.

One of the largest New York research services says now is the time to buy: "Bank stocks should be at or very near their lows. The five year 'profitless prosperity' for the banking industry is drawing to a close. If, as seems a reasonable expectation, industrial profit margins and thus earnings level off over the near term while bank margins are improving, market action of bank stocks could be expected to be better relative to industrials as these trends become more apparent. While there are a number of excellent values in the group, Wells Fargo is specifically recommended for purchase at this time. Wells Fargo has an aggressive loan program that has resulted in a sharp rebound in earnings, up 23% in the first quarter over a year ago. An aggressive branch expansion and merger program in recent years should pay off in the period ahead. The bank operates in Northern California where growth prospects over the next five years are believed to be well above the national average and even better than California as a whole. Selling at about 11 times '66 earnings this growth potential is undervalued in our opinion."

Some experts are saying, "Bank of America is the best buy with their very profitable BankAmerica."

There is probably no Northern California bank stock that some expert doesn't favor. So you don't need to listen to the experts, just buy stock in the bank you use. You know the population in Northern California is going up; you know everybody has to deal with a bank. So how can your bank help but have more business and more profits in the future?

How much could these bank stocks go up? Even if they just go back to their previous highs (and they could go higher) Wells Fargo could go up over 50% to its previous price per share of 56, Bank of America up almost 50% to 72, and Crocker Anglo almost 100% to 65. And this isn't all: you get 3 1/2 to 4% dividends while you're waiting for the possible 50% capital gain.

So go to your friendly stock broker and buy yourself a good bank stock.
